

Super Bowl LIII: Time-lapse shows Mercedes-Benz Stadium being built

By Marc Bona, Cleveland.com • January 31, 2019

CLEVELAND, Ohio – Mercedes-Benz Stadium in Atlanta is the site of Super Bowl LIII between the New England Patriots and Los Angeles Rams.

The HOK-designed stadium took three years to build and opened in 2017. (Progressive Field was designed by HOK Sport, a former division of the company.)

Check out the time-lapse video courtesy of EarthCam, a 23-year-old company based in New Jersey. EarthCam offers live streaming and time-lapse construction cameras for various projects around the world.

The 90-second time-lapse covers 39 months of work. EarthCam construction cameras were onsite from June 2014 to September 2017.